A CHALLENGE TO THE EXPERTS

This brief paper concludes with links to seven previously unsolved ancient mysteries whose solutions refute the consensus. It constitutes a challenge to the experts to weigh this evidence & show how these solutions are wrong.

All creatures have one sole purpose at birth, to reproduce. As we grow we gain purpose in the roles we play. Roles created in the past as parts in plays. Plays based on beliefs requiring those taking roles to act in concert with these beliefs. Belief in god, for example, fosters behaviour defining religious roles. A play that gives believers purpose. In this light, our legacy is purely a history of the plays our ancestors held roles in. Plays conceived by man.

The religious play has always interested me. The church through its architecture, pomp & rite, has long imbued me with a sense of something greater than the physical senses impart. Apart from feelings of reverence & respect, I've often felt enlightened with higher purpose (both in & out of church), a calling to serve others with compassion & understanding. A role, in other words, assumed through feeling.

In this respect, the church is a drama school. It provides the script from which congregants assume their roles in a play imparting shared purpose throughout the congregation. A play providing congregants with identity beyond the family & the job. Kids have little identity outside the family, their neighbourhood & school. They naturally grow shy around strangers & elders. Sunday service, however, gives them a script they can take part in, a liturgy that instills a sense of belonging among strangers, allowing them their earliest role in society at large. You learn the lines & act the part.

Not everyone stays in church, but you never lose the confidence gained from hearing yourself speak & sing in company. Voice at large constitutes a big part of identity. Those who can walk into a roomful of strangers & hold forth freely, have mastered presence.

Now we come to the awful day when the reasons for believing in god were proven wrong.

Evidence for something we interpret today as god, abounds throughout history & prehistory. Modern thought is so saturated with the concept of a prime mover that every puzzling glyph & artifact from the past appears to substantiate the ancient belief in deity. So many of the things & texts that survive seem to involve the heavens, leading to the reflexive conclusion that these ancestral records can only be referring to a divine presence.

Yet the Sumerian, Egyptian & Greek myths along with the Bible, all contain puzzles which have never been understood. In such cases, scholars generally concede that the meaning behind more than a few ancient belief systems, has been irrevocably lost, & that we'll never understand the mysteries they hold.

Here are proofs to seven of these unsolved puzzles, based on the recently-discovered ancient model of thought they actually employ; a lunar-calendar model no scholar has previously considered. There are many further puzzles this insight consistently resolves, across numerous cultures & eras, showing that ancient constructs & images have been historically misrepresented & that the theistic interpretation defaulted to by scholars is wrong.

The Phoenix [Egyptian myth recorded by Herodotus, 5th C BC: https://archive.org/details/phoenix-2/mode/1up]
The Hekat Fractions [Egyptian Eye of Horus: https://archive.org/details/TheLunarContextOfTheHekatFractions/mode/1up]
Noah by the Numbers [resolving discrepancies in Genesis 7/8: https://archive.org/details/NoahByTheNumbers/mode/1up]
The Levitical 49-year Jubilee Calendar [https://archive.org/details/TheLevitical49-yearJubileeCalendar]
Catal Hoyuk Bull-Hunt Mural [Anatolian mural ca 5800 BC: https://archive.org/details/CatalHoyuk/mode/1up]
Lascaux Measures [two cave murals in Lascaux France ca 15,000 BC: https://archive.org/details/LascauxMeasures]
Mayan Long Count [Tortuguero Monument 6, 7th C AD: https://archive.org/details/MayanLongCountDeciphered]
The Lunar Basis of Myth & Symbol [summary: https://archive.org/details/TheLunarBasisOfMythAndSymbol]
Competing Theories of the Alphabet [https://archive.org/details/CompetingTheories]

Nick Drumbolis | February 2025
lettersbookshops@gmail.com